

Resources for Teens & Substance Use

Teen substance abuse is no longer an issue that happens to “someone else.” Today’s drug culture has created an environment in which addiction is common and can happen to anyone. If you know or even suspect that your teen is abusing drugs, it’s crucial that you find help immediately. Use this guide to find substance abuse services in our region. Our pediatric providers and specialists are here for you during this difficult time to answer questions and provide support as you look for treatment options.
